

It all adds up to fun

MARANATHA Christian College in Waikiki celebrated National Numeracy and Literacy Week from August 24 to 28 with a variety of fun activities to promote maths and reading.

The junior school (years 1 to 5) created a bar graph on the basketball court to display the frequency and distribution of students' first initials.

The reading focus for the week was Finding Happiness by author Colin Thompson and a highlight was dressing up as a book character on Tuesday.

Several classes visited local libraries to participate in activities arranged for the week and the college is looking forward to National Simultaneous Storytime on September 2 when students will read The Little Big Book of Happy Sadness.
